Hello Olja,

Please be advised that I spoke with Sara, and her explanation is that she feels as if she is being singled out on the team by other coworkers due to not being overly friendly with them, which is not something that we expect from her, we would just like for her to be approachable and remain professional.

She has explained that she is happy with her job, and the duties that are included with it. She just feels as if her coworkers aren't being professional, and she doesn't want to partake in the same behavior.

I let her know that she is seen as reliable, and that Olja did praise her for being here and doing the work that she does. She is aware the way her behavior is being seen, and she will keep her attitude and behavior professional.

Thank you,

Jaime Barnhart
