Hello Jaime,

I am writing to you with respect to Bruce Dickson's adherence to the uniform policy. I have noticed that as of late, while Bruce is out of a manager's sightline while working at Starship he often removes his hat. I have addressed this with him on a number of occasions and he has mentioned that he struggles with the heat and sweating. He always puts his hat back on without attitude, but it is something that I shouldn't have to reiterate on a regular basis. There is no action needed at the present time, but I would like to note the aforementioned on his record and I will circle back should the behavior warrant a formal coaching on your end.

Thanks.

Best, Nate
