

provides me zero benefits. There should be a law against your business practices. I formally quit just take me off your system and send me the confirmation letter that I quit so I can actually apply at the places that y'all have monopolized in me not being able to be an actual employee.

The loop hole that makes you a legit business is something worth investigating that's for sure

I quit TSCO I'm done running around and having zero benefits and I do not want to work for an entity that treats me like a modern day slave. I formally quit stop texting me and take my information off your system please!
