Hi Robert,

I am sorry to hear that you're not feeling well. Unfortunately due to the last minute call out in addition to all the prior last minute call outs and tardiness, Stripe has decided to cancel your assignment here. This means you will not need to return to the client site, and the hours you worked yesterday in addition to any PTO that you may have remaining will be paid out next Friday per the payroll cycle. If you have any questions, please feel free to give me a call. I can leave your profile active with The Service Companies if you'd like and if we have anything else to offer I can have someone reach out to you but currently I am unsure of what other positions are open elsewhere.
