Summary:

A reliable employee who won't accept "this can't be done" for an answer, consistently looking at the cup as half-full instead of half-empty. I am always taking the insight and advice of others while accessing the job in front of me. All the while remaining humble, honest, kind, and hard working, because these are the core principals which a great employee comes from.

Objective:

Now looking for a new and challenging position, one which will make best use of my existing skills and experience.

Experience:
