BIOGRAPHY Dr. Floyd Gerrod Gray

Born October 29, 1965, is the third in birth order behind his other two siblings to parents that were vocally gifted. His childhood had many trials and triumphs. He excelled at academics, (however bored easily) and athletics (extremely competitive, always challenging older youth to bring their best game and be prepared to take the walk of shame after their defeat). Around age thirteen, he was baptized. He worked hard in his family's lawn care business and was given supervisory experience at an early age. The first of several tests of faith soon followed. A youthful misguided decision resulted in him spending a portion of his adolescence in the foster care system, where he learned value added life lessons that sparked his curiosity in psychology and the real meaning of being a child of GOD. Many mentors recognized his determination and leadership abilities as a teenager. A mentor in the judicial system suggested an opportunity to combine his best attributes; a thirst for thrill seeking, his hunger for knowledge and natural athleticism into a career in the military. He accepted and acclimated to military life easily and rose in rank quickly, to become of apart the Special Forces elite, Army Rangers. In his free time he pursued his hobby of being disc jockey and vocalist for special events. While enlisted he served in Panama and other countries. He was stationed at bases all over the United States, his last assignment being NORAD in Colorado. In the military he gained and appreciation for the laws of both foreign and domestic lands. He always felt a divine presence protecting him every step of his journey (a divine calling), but he was not fully delivered through Christ. When his military career ended due to injury, he attended college as a pre-law major. An opportunity to turn his hobby into a profitable entrepreneurial endeavor blossomed into a hit single recording, touring the United States as civilian and writing for other R & B artists, owning a restaurant and nightclub. All of the success had a high price tag, not making GOD a priority, engaging in illegal activities finally resulting in incarceration. During his incarceration, he fully accepted and rededicated his life to Christ and academics. He changed his former field of study from law to theology. After his release, he served as Chaplain for several income based apartments, engaged in outreach to veterans and disadvantaged populations. He has pastored micro to mega sized congregations in several cities in the United States. During his tenure as full time pastor, he was unfortunately hit by a drunk driver and sustained life altering injuries. After the auto wreck the LORD delivered him from a coma and allowed him to learn to read, write. Talk and walk all over again. However his passion is teaching Biblical principles for practical application in daily living though his organization T.A.S.K. Ministry (Teaching and Spiritual Knowledge) which provides inspirational and motivational seminars upon request.
