Building customer rapport has allowed me to excel in customer service and relations for the past four years. Previously working as a Samsung Representative has broadened my knowledge on technology and marketing as well as utilizing my positive attitude to boost sales. Playing basketball and soccer growing up has built my leadership and teamwork skills, which I implement into the workplace. I have had customers give me great reviews at every company I've had the privilege of being employed for, and would love to receive the next review from yours!
